

The day that you were born, Mommy worked hard to bring you into the world.

She huffed

And she puffed

And she hollered!

When you finally came out, we were amazed. We gazed at you from the top of your head to the tip of your toes. We loved everything about you! We said,
“Our baby girl is so awesome!”

We took you home and cuddled and snuggled and kissed you. Whenever you cried, Mommy lifted you to her breast. You knew just what to do! Sweet warm milk flowed and filled your tummy. You gobbled the milk so quickly!

Slurp

Slurp

Burp!

You fell asleep with a tummy full of milk. Mommy's body made the perfect food for you! Mommy's body is awesome!

Your body was digesting your food so well. One day your face turned bright red and we heard a strange gurgling sound...

Glurp

Gloop

Splotch!

We looked down and saw a stream of golden poop dripping down your leg! We quickly learned to put your diaper on more tightly! But secretly we were proud. Even your poop was awesome!

Every day you shifted and squirmed and tried to reach your toys. You wiggled and wriggled and tried to roll. You stretched and swayed and slipped. Until finally...

Roll

Creep

Crawl!

Your hands and knees worked together, and you crawled across the rug! We were so proud of you! We said, “Our baby girl can crawl! She’s awesome!”

You liked books! Board books, pop-up books and storybooks too. You pointed to pictures and pulled at pages while we read the words.

We talked to you and you chattered back. At first you made funny sounds like...

Ba-ba-ba

Na-na-na

La-la-la!

Then one day you looked up at Mommy and said “Mama!”

We said, “Our little girl is talking! Our baby is awesome!”

Mama!
